EFFICIENCY, AESTHETICS, AND BOB HUDSPETH.

When design demands first began developing for the wide varieties of glass in use today, Robert Hudspeth was there.

As our Eastern region architectural construction market manager Bob has helped solve a lot of glass problems in the architectural community.

He's seen many efficient buildings rise into the skies of New York. Example: Bob represented LOF on The Greenwich Savings Bank, New York—to name just one.

Two goals of the Greenwich Savings owners and architects were efficiency and aesthetics. Thermopane® insulating glass made with Vari-Tran® reflective glass in vision areas, and tempered Vari-Tran in spandrels helped achieve both objectives.

Bob Hudspeth's career spans assignments from draftsman to designer to consultant. And he's available to you as an LOF consultant right now at (201) 947-8000. Libbey-Owens-Ford, Fort Lee, New Jersey 07024.

concrete savings for halls of learning

When exposed concrete is specified as the finished building surface, you can rely on Siegfried to create the desired esthetic effect. Such was the case for the ceilings, columns and spandrel walls for the new Administration Building at the State University College at Buffalo. Light buff colored concrete, skillfully formed by Siegfried craftsmen, was left "as poured," and that was that.

Combining quality materials and cost-saving construction skills for particular people. We put it all together at Siegfried. We call it Constructioneering. Siegfried Construction Co., Inc., 3980 Sheridan Drive, Buffalo, New York 14226. Phone (716) 839-9620.

NYSAA/AIA POLITICAL AFFAIRS

MICHAEL MAAS, Chairman

LEGISLATIVE POSITIONS ON ISSUES AS REVIEWED BY THE POLITICAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE.

Memoranda sent to all Legislators, Civic Associations and Legislative Volunteers as follows:

SUPPORT S-2183-A Mr. Marchi

Creates New South Richmond Development Corporation Act for the controlled development of the South Richmond area of Staten Island.

The land in question is one of New York City's last sizable tracts of open land.

Certainly its development should be carefully controlled to provide for the needs of the Staten Island community. It is apparent that the public can benefit from previous mistakes that have been made in this kind of development: archaic zoning laws; inflexible city agencies; the sacrifice of human and environmental needs to commercial considerations; are all mistakes that pave the way for the slums of the future. We believe that Senator Marchi's bill creating a nine member Board of Directors will make possible a flexible and thoughtful approach to the environmental and architectural planning of South Richmond.

The New York State Association of Architects urges your support of this legislation.

SUPPORT A-1902 Mr. Olivieri

Amends private housing finance law to establish public corporation to enable the rehabilitation of substandard dwelling through the guarantee of loans.

The Political Affairs Committee of this Association supports this bill. It believes that opportunities presented by the intent of this bill should be encouraged for the revitalization of the inner city. All too often really good rehabilitation plans have gone away merely because enabling funds were not available at the time.

The committee comments that there is no good reason to limit the director's age if he or she is in good health.

SUPPORT S-5431-A Mr. Conklin A. 7767-A Rules

Creates 9 man highway advertising sign advisory board to study laws of other states and to submit recommendations to the Governor by March 1, 1975.

This Association in conjunction with the American Institute of Architects fosters movements to improve the visual environment through better graphics and design. In fact, we strongly urge that an architect be a member of this board to cooperate with the spirit and intent of the concept.

SUPPORT S. 5179 Mr. Krupsak

This bill proposes that environmental impact of proposed actions be filed for projects by state agencies, public corporations and public authorities.

The Environmental Committee of the Association believes that New York State should examine the effects on the environment of proposed projects. The intention here is to reduce any negative impact on the environment. Co-operation between state agencies and departments is required.

SUPPORT A. 7290 Mr. Farrell

This is a bill which repeals provisions of law to require the multiple contract system for construction.

This bill proposes to repeal sections of various laws in the state which make mandatory a system of separate construction contracts for public buildings. This requirement has resulted over the years in factors which increase cost by way of increasing confusion due to lack of centralized responsibility. The lack of co-ordination between the various contracts has resulted in the introduction of building costs which are not in the public interest, although the intention was the opposite at the time it was adopted.

SUPPORT S. 550 Mr. Straub A. 2310 Mr. Murto

An act to authorize state debt of 100 million dollars for low-rent housing for the aged.

This bill calls for a bond issue subject to referendum at general election in 1973 to provide low rent housing for the elderly. This would make possible the construction of several thousand dwelling units to meet needs which are desperate throughout the state, more especially since (January 5, 1973) the federal freeze on housing programs.

SUPPORT S. 2028 Mr. Lewis

This bill provides that the New York State Building Code Council formulate rules to eliminate architectural barriers for the handicapped in theaters, schools, libraries, etc.

This Association has supported efforts intended to eliminate architectural barriers in buildings where access is desired by the handicapped. The State Building Code controls design throughout New York State. Widespread recognition of the plight of the handicapped would lead to more acute awareness and sensitivity.

OPPOSITION A. 5011 Mr. Flack

This bill requires that all proposed subsidized public housing be subject to vote within a county; issue to be placed as referendum at next general election.

Although this bill is now classed as "Lost and Tabled" it is realized that the influences which conceived it are regrouping for further legislation.

This Association is opposed to the negativism inherent in legislation of this kind. Delaying, devise actions will never relieve the desperate need for housing.

OPPOSITION A-2608 Mr. Passannante

An act to amend the Education Law to provide for licensing the practice of interior designers.

The usual guideline to the licensure of professionals is the protection of the life, health, and property of the general public. The licensing of interior designers does not serve such a purpose.

The inclusion of structural design (page 5, line 3) in the definition is an unwarranted encroachment by unqualified persons on the practice of architecture and engineering. Structural design is not included in the education or usual experience of interior designers, nor is any liability assumed by the interior designer as in the case of the registered architect/engineer.

This bill indicates that architects and engineers would obtain additional licensing to use the title "Interior Designer" despite complete qualification under present law. We believe there is insufficient public benefit in this bill and are opposed to its passage.

OPPOSITION S. 1997 Mr. Bloom

A. 2834 Mr. Cincotta

An act to amend the state finance law in relation to legislative review of intent to award a contract to a consultant.

This act would make mandatory the letting of contracts with State Agencies based on the lowest possible bidder. In this bill, bids for consulting services are included with materials and equipment. This is in direct contradiction to the recently passed Federal legislation for Architect and Engineer Selection, HR 12807 as well as selection methods accepted in this State.

To reduce the problem of A-E procurement to the least common denominator of cost and to lump together the consultant services with the purchase of specific items indicates a misunderstanding of the nature of consulting services. Traditionally, the most qualified professional is determined prior to selection and discussion of fees.

Consultant services performed by licensed professionals properly selected can save more money for the state than any system of bidding with cost as a basis of selection.

This bill is not in the public interest and is opposed by the Association.

OPPOSITION

Miscellaneous bills amending New York State Urban Development Corporation Act affecting the powers of UDC:

S-269-A Mr. Pisani

A-201 Mr. Suchin

Bills of this nature which eliminate the power of the Corporation to override local zoning ordinances undermines the basic sense of UDC. There is no history of abuse by this Corporation in its widespread influence throughout the state.

The Political Affairs Committee of this Association opposes these measures and others of similar vein which may be introduced in this session.

OPPOSITION S. 2717 Mr. Gordon

An act to amend the Education Law (Section 7321) to extend definition of practice of landscape architects to include the designs of non-habitable structures.

The memorandum of support submitted with this bill is much more explicit and direct in stating its case; primarily to include the design of land features and drainage structures, including retaining walls which found its way into the bill as non-habitable structures.

The use of the word habitable opens itself to innumerable interpretations and variations. Non-habitable might likely become interpreted as shelters, band shells, pergolas etc. all of which are not habitable in one sense, but all of which might plainly hold or shelter a vast number of persons subject to injury in the event of a structural failure.

This bill is not in the best interest of the public. We oppose its passage.

an open letter on air conditioning to building owners, architects, consulting engineers and contractors from the Buffalo Forge Company.

In view of the demand for more sophisticated air conditioning systems, the rapid rise in construction and maintenance costs, and the growing concern for our natural resources, Buffalo Forge supports those who believe:

- Operating and maintenance costs are assuming greater importance with respect to initial cost.
- Energy conservation is essential, economically & ecologically.
- Central Air Handling Systems are necessary to achieve optimum performance.
- Designers should have complete engineering and cost information for selecting air handling cabinet components to exactly meet modern environmental requirements.
- Controlled cost factory fabrication of the complete air handling system is necessary to get a top quality unit with the best possible value.
- You, the building team, should have the communication tools required to produce concise specifications, control equipment procurement and facilitate installation.

Buffalo's new model "J" air handling systems give you these "tools".

Request copies of Buffalo's new Specification and Design Manuals from your Buffalo Sales Engineer. Or write direct. Now, see how easily you can build specifications for any air handling system. Study the unequalled choice of components, including backwardly curved fans, low air-friction coils, filters, sound attenuators, vibration isolation bases, dampers, service plenums, access doors, and many more. Your Buffalo Sales Engineer will show you how to apply this new Specification and Design technique. He can quickly and accurately quote any combination of components you select. Act today. We believe you'll be delighted with Buffalo's answer to your Air Handling System specification and design problems.

NYSAA/AIA AWARD FOR COMMUNITY DESIGN

This Award initiated in 1972, focuses attention on examples of excellence in community design which warrant State level recognition by the Architectural profession.

This Award, in the form of a citation, will be made to a New York State community or governmental agency which has completed, at least one year earlier, (1972), a project of distinction which has architects as principal designers or members of the design team. The NYSAA/AIA Committee on Honors & Awards urges that nominations be submitted by a Chapter as a result of its interest in the local community and as a result of its own deliberations.

The nominations can be informal, but should be precise and sufficiently informative to give the Committee a good basis for judgment. Single building projects are not eligible for consideration. Nominations should be submitted in 9-½" x 11" acetate-paged, spiral bound notebooks containing descriptions, plans, photographs and at least four (4) color slides (preferably which may be retained for a circulating slide show). The community, the client and/or government agency and the members of the design team should be identified. Anonymity is almost impossible to achieve in an award of this nature since most of the projects will be known to the jurors. The jury will include recognized professionals with experience in this field.

Submissions must be sent to NYSAA/AIA Headquarters,
441 Lexington Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017, post marked not later than June 30, 1973.

A Proposal For Filing Information of a General Nature

What to do with the mass of papers that inundate every architect's office is a difficult and continuing problem. Over the years, several different systems have been developed but it was not until recently, with the publication of the UNIFORM CONSTRUCTION INDEX, that a format was introduced for the filing and placement of general information, or data, which is not directly related to products or specifications.

The development of the General Information Filing Format (GIFF), set forth below, was based, in large part, on the information contained in Section 1, General Data, of the Data Filing Format of the UNIFORM CONSTRUCTION INDEX (UCI). Two substantial differences between the two formats are:

1. This GIFF format, unlike the UCI, is primarily for architects. This format omits categories that are not commonly used in architectural offices; adds some categories that might be of value to the architect and combines some categories that appear to be closely related.

2. GIFF has 26 categories; thereby allowing for alphabetical filing and marking. The assumption was that P 12 or E 8 is easier to use and remember than 16.12 or 5.8, particularly if the section prefix is added (i.e. 1 K 14 as compared with 1.11.14). The 26 categories are broad enough to encompass most, if not all, of the data to be filed.

As stated above, the format is to be used only for data and information that is not related to specification subjects. It is not expected that all information will be filed in the same manner, as certain categories will require much more space than others and for some data, shelves will be more appropriate than file drawers.

The General Information Filing Format was developed under the auspices of the Office Practice Committee of the New York State Association of Architects.

New York State Registered Architects

The listing below is published by permission of the New York State Education Department as a special service to the public.

The list includes names of all licensed architects whose address listing is in New York State and/or are members of New York State Association of Architects as of April 10, 1973.

Names of licensed architects whose address is outside of New York State are on a master list maintained at Headquarters.

Business addresses have been used wherever information was available through NYSAA/AIA. The address recorded with the New York State Education Department has been used when no other information is available.

SPECIAL NOTE: Architects licensed in New York State whose names are not included in this list and who are members of the American Institute of Architects are listed separately.

This directory is published by the New York State Association of Architects, Inc., the State Organization of the American Institute of Architects.

For further information, please contact the Association Headquarters at 441 Lexington Avenue, New York 10017. Please mail corrections on form provided.

COMPONENT CODE AND LEGEND:

The number or symbol at the extreme right of each member's name designates the Component to which each member is assigned by the American Institute of Architects. The New York Society is not an AIA Component.

TURNKEY- ARCHITECT'S VIEWPOINT

The firm of Donald J. Stephens Associates, Architects, Loudonville, New York, is involved in Turnkey work as administrative architects for owners, and has participated as design architects for Turnkey proposals by contractors. Partners Don Stephens and Ron Rucinski have prepared the following analysis of the process for publication in the Empire State Architect. Initially prepared for clients considering use of the Turnkey process, it does not detail the economic ramifications to architects, but Don and Ron offer the following observations:

- If all architects involved in preparing plans for Turnkey proposals were adequately compensated for their work, the process would be advantageous to the profession in generating a substantial amount of work . . . i.e., many architects being paid for the design of a single facility.
- If architects participate in Turnkey design proposals on a contingency basis with only the usual architect's fee as the prize for the winner, they should consider the odds of winning and any fringe benefits that might accrue.

In essence, in a turnkey project a client enters into a fixed amount sales contract with a developer to find and acquire a site, design and construct a project to the client's specifications, and then sell the completed project to the client. The developer assumes all of the risks and finances the project. The client need only purchase the project if upon completion it meets his specifications.

The sales contract might be negotiated with a single developer or competitive proposals can be taken from several developers. Developers making proposals may be preselected or not. When competitive proposals are received, an award is usually based on the best value rather than the lowest price.

There are modified turnkey projects where the client might:

- designate a site to be used which would be purchased by the developer, when a specific location is important.
- provide the site, when it is already owned or when a specific location is important.

- In competitive Turnkey, payments to the architects, by the client, of a reasonable fee appears to be the most effective way to obtain the advantages to the client on an equitable basis for the design professions.
- Services of administrative architects on a time and expense basis for programming, preparation of performance standards specifications and documentation, plus construction administration and on-site representation, will probably run between 2 percent and 3 percent of the cost of a project.

- make monthly progress payments to the developer, when it is less expensive for the client to finance the construction than the developer.

Advantages of turnkey include single responsibility for design and construction; and the possibility of a reduced time span from first decision to occupancy, since the developer can start construction before planning is 100 percent complete. In competitive turnkey, depending on the stringency of the client's specifications and the expertise of the developers, it is probable a variety of solutions will be proposed by the developers, giving the client the maximum benefit of proposals based on latest technology and current market conditions from which to make a selection.

There are some disadvantages. Because the client is not involved in review and comment during the design process, it is unlikely any proposals will be completely satisfactory. There is little flexibility for design changes after proposals are made because costs become fixed, so generally the client will have to accept some features which are noise control ...in the walls

Starkustic . . . structural glazed ceramic tile that soaks up noise but nothing else. Starkustic . . . places noise control in the structural walls. Glass-hard, permanent glazed finish resists scratches, stains, oils, acids and caustics . . . zero flame spread, structural strength. It all adds up to the ideal product to help solve noise pollution problems in industrial plants, commercial buildings, utilities, treatment plants . . . everywhere there's noise.

undesirable. The adversary relationship between owner and contractor that occurs in the traditional bid/build process if further aggravated because the developer (as designer) has a greater degree of control over the materials, systems, equipment and details of construction, many of which may not be clearly documented at the time of award. The process tends to be one of continual negotiation.

Under modified turnkey approaches where the client has a financial investment in the project, it could be very difficult to refuse to purchase a completed project that was unsatisfactory, so a compromise could be expected.

Because of the above it becomes very important that the client's representatives be knowledgeable and skilled in all aspects of the design and construction processes.

THE PROCESS

The following is a process for turnkey projects with identification of key required decisions.

- A. Retain an architect or engineer experienced in turnkey to represent the client and assist in all phases of the project.
- B. Decide on turnkey or modified turnkey method.
 - required decisions.
 - who locates site?
 - who purchases site?
 - who finances construction?
 - it should be possible to define parameters for selecting a site which would permit a developer to find and acquire a site.
 - a developer might be able to purchase and resell a site at lower cost.
 - determine what legal constraints may apply, particularly in public work, to proposal solicitation, evaluation, and award.
- C. Decide policy on stringency of specifications.
 - the more stringent the specifications, the less latitude a developer has to innovate.
 - by adopting building code requirements and regulating agency standards, a general performance quality level can be established without dictating specifics to developer.
 - where important, specific sections of specifications can be more detailed.
 - It is important specifications clearly define scope and quality of the work, or the client may lose quality control.
- D. Program project and prepare client's exhibits.
 - exhibits should include:
 - site data.
 - when developer is to find site, provide sufficient parameters to control site selection, such as:
 - geographic location.
 - relationship to highways and transportation routes.
 - utility requirements.
 - character of neighborhood.
 - minimum size.
 - zoning.
 - when site is provided by client, required information on site includes:

- zoning.
- boundaries.
- topography and utilities.
- subsurface investigation information.
- deed restrictions or covenants..

-project description.

-project should be described in terms of functional and aesthetic goals, project design life, general standards of quality, future expansion and such other design features as may be appropriate, so proposers may understand client's intent.

-specific project criteria and program should be further defined for both site and building.

-this may be accomplished through narrative description with functional diagrams or through study plans.

-the descriptive approach is preferable since study plans tend to discourage innovation.

-narrative and diagrams would describe in detail:

- spatial requirements in square feet, or function to be housed.
- functional relationships.
- mechanical and electrical requirements.
- equipment and features to be included and/or provided for.
- requirements for parking, site storage, fencing, landscaping, and other required sitework.

E. Decide construction requirements and standards.

-prepare specifications to establish requirements and standards for all work, components and systems which make up the project under the following divisions:

- conditions of the contract.
- general requirements.
- site work.
- concrete.
- masonry.
- metals.
- wood and plastics.
- thermal and moisture protection.
- doors and windows.
- finishes.
- specialties.
- equipment.
- furnishings.
- special construction.
- conveying systems.
- mechanical.
- electrical.

F. Decide proposal evaluation procedures.

-determine procedures for objectively evaluating proposals in terms of:

- meeting technical requirements of specifications.
- costs.
- time schedules.

The Pyrotex 100 Ceiling System increases ceiling design flexibility.

Gar Side Junior High School, Las Vegas
Architect: Tate & Dobrusky, A.I.A.

Pyrotex 100 is made specifically to eliminate the design restrictions imposed by ordinary ceiling panel dimensions. With lengths of up to 8', Pyrotex panels provide much more flexibility in placement of lighting and ventilation troffers, while the 1' width allows instant accessibility to any part of the plenum.

Created to be used in conventional and semi-concealed

(one-directional) systems, Pyrotex 100 panels are kerfed and rabbeted on the long edges, with ends trimmed to lay on exposed system members. Pyrotex 100 has an AIMA Flame Spread rating of Class I (0-25 range) and provides excellent acoustical efficiency.

For more detailed information contact: Simpson Timber Co., 15 Home News Row, New Brunswick, N.J. 08902.

Metaledge Fast. Economical

Corewall. Great shaft design.

To cut the cost of elevator shafts, stairwells and other vertical chases in high-rise construction takes a mighty constructive material. So take a look at Metaledge Corewall in the picture at left.

There are only two drywall applicators. Because it takes only two men.

They both work from the corridor side, tilting each panel into place against top and bottom angle runners. Each panel is locked to the previous panel with self-drilling drywall screws. Right through the metal edges. It's a simple, clean operation that eliminates expensive scaffolding in the shaft.

Metaledge Corewall panels are slim (2" thick), lightweight (8.5 pounds per square foot) with built-in metal edges. Each panel is mill-laminated in lengths up to 16'. Easy to handle. Easy to install.

And it has great design features, too!

Metaledge Corewall not only meets ordinary fire codes, but is a non-symmetrical shaft wall system that achieves a two-hour fire rating from both sides.

It is designed with the super strength necessary where high speed elevators create heavy positive and negative air pressure loading. Especially in high-rise construction.

As design load increases, or as building height goes up, it becomes less expensive to meet performance standards with Metaledge Corewall than with any other shaft wall system.

Now that we've given you an idea about cutting building costs, maybe we can give you some other constructive ideas. Talk to your Gold Bond representative. Or write National Gypsum Company, Gold Bond Building Products Division, Dept. SA-63G, Buffalo, New York 14225.

Among other major high-rise buildings utilizing Gold Bond Metaledge Corewall is the towering Marine Midland Center, Buffalo, N.Y. Architect: Skidmore, Owings & Merrill; Drywall Contractor: The Mader Corporation, Buffalo, N.Y.

ROY O. ALLEN

EDWARD FLEAGLE

ROBERT F. GATJE, FAIA

Roy O. Allen began work shortly after World War II as a staff designer in the New York office of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill. By 1960, he had advanced to the position of senior design partner, with responsibility for approximately half of the work of the New York office. His work has carefully developed the potentials of structural precast concrete and exposed steel into bold and honest structural expressions of those materials. The Virginia National Bank in Norfolk, Huntington National Bank in Columbus, and the American Bible Society building in New York are among his first and finest precast concrete bearing wall buildings. The Bible Society structure received an award of merit from the Concrete Industry, as did his recent office building for Schering Chemical in Kenilworth, New Jersey. The Armstrong Cork Engineering Building in Lancaster, Shell Computer Center in Tulsa, and the new Social Science Building at Cornell are fine examples of his use of steel. On a larger scale, the United States Steel building in the Wall Street area is the first major tower in the U.S. to use exposed structural steel, and sets a precedent for research and development of the architectural use of this material, recognized by an Award of Excellence from the Consulting Engineers Society of New York.

Born December 13, 1908 in Yonkers, New York. Graduate of Pratt Institute School of Architecture 1929. Established private practice 1934, joining in partnership with Richard E. Kaeyer 1971. Architectural Coordinator Shore Installations, Fifth Naval District 1942-46. Deputy New York State Architect, Veterans Housing Program 1949-50. President Westchester Chapter AIA 1947-48, and Director 1949-55. Organizer and Chairman Scholarship Award Westchester Chapter AIA 1950-56. President and Governor Pratt Architectural Club. Committee on School Buildings and Hospitals NYSAA 1958-62. Regional AIA Committee on Schools 1953-56. Twenty-three years on Westchester Planning Board, serving as Chairman 1967-72. Trustee Marshlands Conservancy, Rye, New York. Commissioner, Yonkers Building Board of Review. Recently appointed Chairman of Aesthetics Committee for White Plains Civic Complex. Advisory Committee Urban Development Corporation since 1969. Citizen Advisory Tri-State Transportation Commission 1969. Trustee and Past President Hudson River Museum and Chairman of Building Committee. Director of Yonkers Chamber of Commerce and Chairman of Long Range Planning and Zoning Committees, Vice Chairman, Business and Industrial Expansion Committee. Trustee of Peoples Savings Bank Yonkers. Architectural work includes over 40 public and private schools and colleges throughout Westchester and Rockland Counties.

Brooklyn born, Robert F. Gatje attended Cornell University's College of Architecture from which he graduated with honors in 1951. During the next year, he did graduate work on a Fulbright Scholarship at the Architectural Association School of Architecture in London. He joined Marcel Breuer in 1953 after being associated with Percival Goodman and with Skidmore, Owings and Merrill. He became a Partner in 1964. Mr. Gatje, who is a registered architect in the state of New York, holds membership in the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards and the American Institute of Architects, which he serves as Vice President of the New York Chapter. He was head of the Paris office, Marcel Breuer Architecte, from 1964-1966. He is a member of the National Commercial Panel of Arbitrators of the American Arbitration Association, a member of the Council for the College of Architecture, Art and Planning, Cornell University, and the president of the Alumni of Deep Springs and Telluride Association.

Elected to the New York State Assembly in 1942 and has been serving continuously to 1972. Co-Sponsored: the Mitchell-Lama Bill in 1955; the new Multiple Dwelling Law applicable to cities of over one million in population; the Multiple Residence Law in New York City; the first Condominium Law for the State of New York with Senator Mitchell. From 1940 to 1950 he served as President of the Brownsville Civic Association. In 1951, he was appointed as chairman of the 73rd Precinct of Brooklyn's Office of Civilian Defence. He was a sponsor and founding Director of the Brownsville Boys Club and Youth Service League. Recipient: the Sidney L. Strauss Award in 1955 from the New York Society of Architects a citation from Cooper Union in recognition of his public achievements in 1956; and the 1972 Annual Public Service Award from the Jewish War Veterans-Department of New York, among many others. From 1962-1968 he was a member of the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Womens Hospital. He is a former trustee of the Italian Board of Guardians. Mr. Lama is past President of the Brooklyn Society of Architects, which is now the Brooklyn Chapter, AIA.

Born in Austria-Hungary in 1899. Educated in Vienna and Rome, receiving early influence from Bruno Taut, Peter Behrens and Eric Mendelson. He has designed important and innovative medical facilities, primarily in Israel, and is one of the originators and strongest advocates of the Comprehensive Community Health Care. Mr. Neufeld's ideas and standards have extended his influence. He was a consultant to the U.S. Public Health Service in 1946-47 when the first basic standards for hospitals and medical research facilities were developed and when prototype plans were drafted for the newly legislated Hill-Burton Act. This work became the principal reference source available at the time in the hospital planning field. From 1950 to 1960, he was engaged in the planning of the Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center in Jerusalem. One of the outcomes of this project was a generic design concept which has greatly influenced the planning of medical centers here and abroad. Mr. Neufeld has taught at Yale, Pratt Institute, MIT, North Carolina State University, and abroad.

Ward's architecture reflects local conditions, usage, climate, capabilities of local craftsmen and the availability of building materials that are close at hand. His planning and construction are modern, but occupants of his building are made conscious of the fact that they are in Barbados, Spain, or Tahiti. In the early 1940's, Ward designed the Hotel de las Americas in Acapulco, the first major hotel in that Mexican resort. He has since been responsible for major hotels in the Caribbean, on Barbados, Jamaica, St. Lucia, and Grenada. He is senior partner of a firm based in Nassau and a member of the New York chapter of the AIA. Perhaps his most painstakingly executed designs were for the Mill Reef Club and some 50 houses on shorefront property and three islands in Antigua, West Indies, which Ward acquired after a long search for suitable sites. He personally promoted the resort and selected its members. In earlier practice in Boston and New York, he completed an award-winning school, a chapel, and one of the first contemporary houses in New Canaan, Conn.

Before you decide on any tennis court surface, get the facts on Plexipave.®

You don't want to have to do it again.

Selecting the right playing surface is an important decision. That's why you need the facts about Plexipave.

Plexipave is more than just a surface coloring, it's a high-performance 100% acrylic color-in-depth surface system. Properly applied over any sound asphalt or concrete surface by authorized tennis court specialists, Plexipave will last for years and years longer than anything you could compare to it.

Plexipave wears uniformly, with no gloss or glare, even after years of hard use. It stands up to rough weather and direct sunlight. It's resistant to racquet gouges. And the way Plexipave is applied can even determine the speed of the court.

For added resilience and player comfort, we can provide a subsurface of Plexicushion®.

Years of performance have proven what we've always claimed. You can't get a better tennis court surface than Plexipave on outdoor or indoor courts.

Hanley goes with every style ...beautifully

Hanley has the exact brick to complement any apartment style. Jumbo Face Brick, for example. An excellent match for a high-rise apartment building, like the Tower 58 (bottom right) in New York City. Hanley's Oyster White Jumbo Glazed Brick makes the contemporary scene in the Madison Street Apartment complex in Columbia, South Carolina (top right). Comes in 26 colors and washes itself clean in the rain. Antique White Face Brick combines the strength and quality of modern brick with the look of colonial brick. In the Scholtz Homes' apartment complex (left), it's an important part of the Early American charm.

No matter what style apartment building you're considering, Hanley has the exact brick or tile you need. It goes with every design—beautifully. Ask your Hanley representative to show you samples.
